Guide to accommodations in France

A word from the Chairman

Hello Friend,

You have in your hands over 100 years of social tourism accommodation proposals in France, as well as the addresses of our international sites.

These include houses, chalets, refuges of all sizes and campsites.

The accommodations are all different, but what they all have in common is the warm welcome offered by Friends of Nature. The organisation's volunteers make their homes available to you, your family and your friends for a small fee.

With very few exceptions, our facilities are located in places where you can discover nature – mountains, seas, lakes, forests and the countryside – through the activities we offer and our knowledge of our environment, which we will be delighted to share with you.

But Friends of Nature, an international movement with 400,000 members in 40 countries, is also about secularism, grassroots education, tolerance, humanism, solidarity, attachment to republican values and respect for others.

All our members take great care to protect nature and ensure it is known and respected. Whenever necessary, they are involved in actions to combat threats to the environment, biodiversity and quality of life.

So welcome to our sites, in France or elsewhere in the world, and maybe one day to our ranks, as one of our volunteers!

Les Amis de la Nature : For a different approach to leisure.

Cordial Berg Frei !

François Septier
National Chairman
